Bootleggers Heavily Fined.

Arthur Johnson, George McDonald, Jordan Anderson and Prince Johnson, four negroes arrested recently in Millersburg, charged with violating the local option laws in that city, were tried in the County Court Friday and given fines ranging from $60 to $120 and jail sentences from twenty to one hundred and forty days.

For several months past it had become evident among the residents of Millersburg that liquor was being sold in that city, and by private subscription a sufficient sum was raised by which to employ a detective to locate the violators.

Detective J. A. Thompson, of Lebanon, Ky., was engaged to work on the case and going to Millersburg secured employment as a farm hand on a farm near that city. For several weeks he was engaged in working up a clew which led to the arrest of the guilty parties, who were brought to Paris and lodged in jail.

Detective Thompson appeared in court against the four bootleggers who were fined as follows: Arthur Johnson, on two charges, $60 and thirty days in jail at hard labor; Geo. McDonald one charge, $60; Jordan Anderson, four charges, 140 days at hard labor; Prince Johnson, on four charges was assessed fines in the aggregate to the sum of $240, and on one case was given a fine of $100 and twenty days in jail. Unless the fines imposed by the court are paid or reprieved, they are to be worked out at hard labor.

E. L. Harris Meets With Serious Accident.

As the result of an accident which occurred at his residence on Stoner avenue about 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon Mr. E. L. Harris, one of the most popular and best known men in this city, lies at St. Joseph Hospital, Lexington in a critical condition from the effects of a gunshot wound in his abdomen.

Mr. Harris was preparing to go dove hunting and had gone upstairs at his home to get his gun, supposedly to put in condition for the day's hunt. In coming down the stairs in some manner he tripped, falling with the gun which was discharged the load of bird shot entering his left side and inflicting a wound that will probably result fatally.

Mr. Harris had just returned from the Agricultural Bank where he held the position as head bookkeeper and on the road had met several friends with whom he conversed in his usual jovial manner. Mr. John J. Connelly, who was engaged in repairing a boiler at the Harris home was the only other occupant in the house at the time of the accident, Mrs. Harris being on a visit to relatives in North Middletown and his son, Harold Harris being up in town.

Mr. Connelly did not hear the report of the gun because of the noise being made in the basement where the boiler was being repaired. The little son of Luke Connelly, who was in the front yard heard the report and seeing Mr. Harris fall down the stairs, rushed to his uncle and informed him of the accident.

Mr. Connelly hastened to the side of the injured man, who requested him to call a doctor immediately. A physician was summoned and Mr. Connelly rendered all the assistance possible to add to the comfort of the injured man until he could receive medical attention. Upon the arrival of his physicians Doctors Fithian and Daugherty and the nature of his wound as determined it was decided upon to take him to the St. Joseph Hospital, Lexington, where an operation could be performed with the hope of saving his life. He was hurried to that city in Dr. Daugherty's automobile.

Mr. Harris was one of the most popular and best liked men in Paris. For several years he has held the position of head bookkeeper in the Agricultural Bank in this city. He was prominent in Masonic circles and held the office of Generalissimo in the local lodge of Knights Templar. The sad accident is deplored by his host of friends in Paris.

A telephone message from the St. Joseph Hospital at 8:30 o'clock last night stated that the condition of Mr. Harris was serious and the chances for his recovery very doubtful.

A telephone dispatch at 9:30 last night was to the effect that Mr. Harris had undergone the operation, but his condition was such that he could not possibly live more than an hour.
